Rock In Prevention presents a delightfully interactive program on self-esteem, character, and bully prevention to elementary aged students. Marcelo Arevolo and Jenna Huston presented two programs for our students; one for the younger students (preschool through 3rd grade) and one for older elementary students (4th grade through 6th grade). Each program was presented in a way that especially identified with the age level of the audience.

The most effective element of the program is the involvement of the audience. Interactive programs always capture the audience most effectively and Marcelo and Jenna's program was interactive from the first word (or note). Our students continued to sing various songs from the program for the next couple of days. We are using our complimentary CD, full of songs from the program, daily in our morning announcements.

Staff comments were consistently positive. I'm sure Rock In Prevention will be a part of our programming again in the future.
