To Whom It May Concern:

After much demand our school decided to welcome back Rock In Prevention for an anti-bullying assembly in October. The presenters Jenna Huston and Marcelo Arevalo were excellent to work with and very invested in our students learning. Our staff felt as if they were very personable, energetic and full of character for our youth to enjoy.

Jenna and Marcelo taught our students to accept each other and protect each other through positive interactions and saying "We Don't Do That Here". Having the students role-play with different assertive responses helps them to know what to say when put in a real-life bullying situation. They also taught us how drugs and alcohol can affect our body by making us sick.

With the use of music and dance our students have been able to enjoy and personalized the message from the day. Hearing back from families we know that the CD's are being used in the home and vehicles. When learning is provided with fun and laughter such as musical songs, students pick up and remember it for years to come.

Rock in Prevention has been a favorite for students, staff and administration here at East Buchanan. We greatly enjoy having them back to share with our students. It is fun to see students grow into the leaders and presenters for younger generations to come. We thoroughly enjoyed having Jenna and Marcelo share their talents and knowledge with our school here at East Buchanan,
